

DOROTHY HEIGHT RESEARCH GUIDE

Sources That Showcase Religious Activism

Christian Sisterhood, Race Relations, and the YWCA, 1906-46
Nancy Marie Robertson
University of Illinois Press
2007

Primary Sources

Open Wide the Freedom Gates: A Memoir
Dorothy Height
PublicAffairs
April 28, 2009

The Adult Education Program of the YWCA Among Negroes
Dorothy Height.
The Journal of Negro Education Vol. 14, No. 3, pp. 390 - 395
JSTOR
Summer, 1945

A Time to Listen: Civil Rights and the Mass Media
Dorothy Height
Southwest Review Vol. 53, No. 3, pp. 221 - 235
JSTOR
Summer, 1968

Dorothy Irene Height papers
Sophia Smith Collection of Women's History
Smith College Libraries
Digitized

Secondary Sources

Dorothy Irene Height: Profile of a Giant in Pursuit of Equal Justice for Black Women
Sandra Edmonds Crewe
Journal of Women and Social Work
Sage Journals
May 1, 2009

“The National Council of Negro Women, Human Rights, and the Cold War” In Breaking the Wave: Women, Their Organizations, and Feminism, 1945-1985
Julie A. Gallagher
Taylor & Francis Group
2010

American Dissidents: An Encyclopedia of Activist, Subversives, and Prisoners of Conscience;
Vol I: A-J
Kathlyn Gay
ProQuest
ABC-Clio – p. 282-286

Men and Women Adrift: The YMCA and the YWCA in the City
Margaret Ann Spratt & Nina Mjagkij
NYU Press
July 1997

Strategic Sisterhood: The National Council of Negro Women in the Black Freedom Struggle
Rebecca Tuuri
University of North Carolina Press
April 9, 2018

Digital Media

Dorothy Height

Video, Interview

Library of Congress

2004

Dorothy Height and others at the Million Man March, Washington, D.C., 1995

Mark T, Kerrin

Photo

Library of Congress

1995

Eleanor Roosevelt receiving the Mary McLeod Bethune Human Rights Award from Dorothy Height, president of the National Council of Negro Women at the Council's Silver Anniversary Dinner in New York, November 12, 1960

Franklin D. Roosevelt

Photo

National Archives Catalog

1960

Dorothy Height describes her involvement in various organizations

The History Makers

Interview

2003

Dorothy Height reflects on her legacy

The History Makers

Interview

2003